The image features a variety of phone cases and white circular discs arranged on a light brown, textured surface. The phone cases are made of a translucent material, possibly jelly, and are decorated with a pattern of small, multi-colored specks (red, blue, green, yellow) that resemble a starry sky. The cases come in different colors: blue, pink, light grey, and black. Some cases have a white circular ring on the back, and one case is shown with a smartphone attached, highlighting the camera cutout. There are five white circular discs scattered around the cases. The overall composition is a flat-lay style.

Benefits of customized eco-friendly products

Global Recognition

Environmentally friendly materials are supported by relevant certificates, gaining global recognition, making it easier to enter the international market and attract more attention.

Enhancement of brand image

The use of eco-friendly materials and the development of eco-friendly product lines will help to enhance the green image of the brand.

Improve product transparency

Some eco-friendly products, such as GRS products, carry GRS labels with standardized content of ingredients and recycled materials, satisfying consumers' right to know and facilitating their choices.

TC certificate is shipped with the order

GRS products containing more than 20% recycled raw materials can apply for TC trading certificate. TC certificate is a strong proof that the product is environmentally friendly.
